

What does 'growing communities' actually mean? –
Keri Lim

As a church, we seek to equip people so that they 'live and breath' their faith. We do this in a variety of ways: we worship God and seek to grow in knowledge of Christ through the church services, in small groups, and through serving at church. It is only through getting to know God and love God more that we are able bear fruit; to be transformed by Him. And as we grow in our knowledge of Christ, we yearn to share the news of his awesome, transforming love with others. God created us to love Him and to be loved by Him. He created us to love and to be loved by others – to live in community. He is the only source of true community.

May we persevere in making the gospel known, safe in the assurance that God's community-transforming love allows us to truly understand and accept the best news in the world: the news of his world-transforming grace.

'The gospel is bearing fruit and growing throughout the whole world — just as it has been doing among you since the day you heard it and truly understood God's grace.' <Colossians 1:6>
