

You become what you worship

New Sermon Series from 2nd Aug to 6th Sept

Ordinary Time

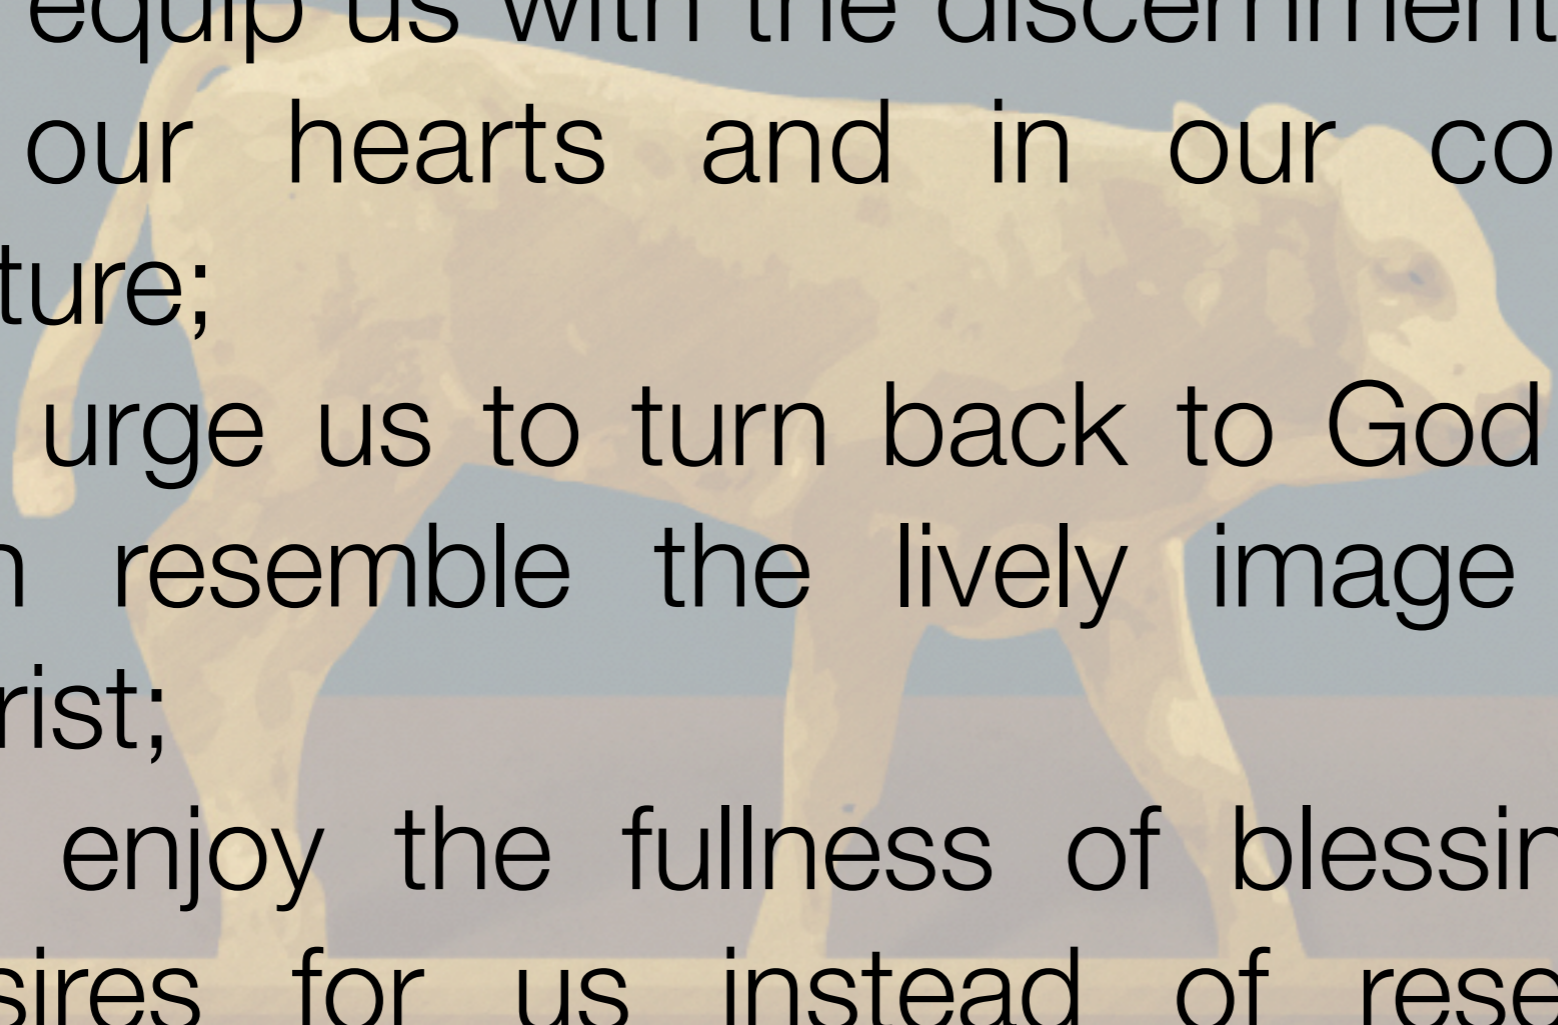

The Christian year includes a “non-seasonal” time known as the Ordinary Time, which lies outside the seasons of Lent-Easter and Advent-Christmas and when we focus on instructing Christians on how to live out their Christian faith in their daily lives.

Series Introduction

Theologian N.T. Wright insightfully said, “You become like what you worship. When you gaze in awe, admiration, and wonder at something or someone, you begin to take on something of the character of the object of your worship.” This series explores the issue of idolatry from the biblical understanding that we take on the character of the object that we worship. The aim is to equip us with the discernment of the idols in our hearts and in our contemporary culture and urge us to turn back to God so that we can resemble the lively image bearers of Christ and enjoy the fullness of blessings that he desires for us instead of resembling the lifeless idols that we worship.

Aims

- To discern between true worship and false worship (idolatry);
 - To equip us with the discernment of the idols in our hearts and in our contemporary culture;
 - To urge us to turn back to God so that we can resemble the lively image bearers of Christ;
 - To enjoy the fullness of blessings that he desires for us instead of resembling the lifeless idols that we worship.
